in Performance Pitching

Hukuman ni Banahaw is a multidisciplinary performance framed as a symbolic tribunal contesting the privatization and exploitation of Mt. Banahaw. Through poetic testimonies and monologues, the narrative centers on the collective voice of the people, exploring how imposed "progress" impacts communities deeply tied to the land. Driven by four actors, the piece powerfully embodies the shifting perspectives of the Land, the People, the Ancestors, and the Tribune to confront urgent issues of environmental and cultural preservation.
